HOW TO CREATE A TRULY ENGAGED ORGANISATION

We're delighted to have the opportunity at this year's Leicester Business Festival, to discuss the hottest buzzword in the business world these days – engagement. With surveys repeatedly showing that over 80 percent of employees are not engaged in their jobs, the scope for performance improvement is astonishing.

We would therefore love you to join us – and think through how you can raise engagement levels in your organisation.

The team at Chris Cooper Business Elevation, are running the event in conjunction with Engagement Multiplier, who are the initiators of a global movement and methodology, that enables businesses to simply measure and improve engagement levels in 90-days.

How will the event help?

Everybody wants engaged team members and customers. Everybody wants to attract and retain great staff but how do you actually transform engagement? During this event, we'll provide you with the essential information to go back into your organisation and elevate engagement to the next level.

As a local Leicester based people development business, Chris Cooper Business Elevation is committed to contributing to Engagement Multiplier's global vision, of helping 100 million people to become measurably more engaged.
